CapitalPay International, Tencent Cloud, Techtanium and GoPomelo Announce Strategic Partnership to Power Global Payment Infrastructure with Enterprise AI-Driven Cloud Platform

Joint milestone unites CapitalPay's fintech innovation with GoPomelo's Southeast Asia technology leadership to deliver next-generation, AI-driven payments infrastructure worldwide.

Singapore, 11 August 2026 – CapitalPay International (CapitalPay), a software engineering technology corporation specialising in digital financial infrastructure, payment systems and revenue management platforms, and GoPomelo, Southeast Asia's trusted AI Advisor and cloud solutions provider, today jointly announced a landmark strategic partnership to design, deploy and manage an enterprise-grade global payment orchestration platform.

The agreement marks a defining milestone for both companies, combining CapitalPay's fintech innovation with GoPomelo's proven expertise in AI-driven cloud solutions to build resilient, enterprise-grade digital payments infrastructure.

With Techtanium as the payment solution provider, the platform will enable CapitalPay to deliver a unified, multi-bank, trust-based payment system that provides governments, financial institutions and corporations with real-time visibility, centralised control and efficient settlement capabilities over revenue collections. Designed for scale, resilience and regulatory compliance, the solution is architected to support high transaction volumes while laying a foundation for future expansion into additional global markets.

"This initiative is an important step forward in modernizing financial infrastructure worldwide, and we are proud to partner with CapitalPay to achieve this," said Lindbergh Xu, CEO at GoPomelo. "It showcases GoPomelo's capabilities as an AI Advisor to design and operate large-scale fintech platforms, and underlines our commitment to long-term, secure, and scalable payment solutions."

Under the partnership, GoPomelo will lead the full delivery and operation of the platform, bringing together the following technologies and services:

The solution integrates payment platform technology provided by Techtanium and leverages Tencent Cloud's global cloud infrastructure, orchestrated and delivered end-to-end by GoPomelo.

"Our collaboration with GoPomelo strengthens our ability to deliver a robust and globally scalable payment system," said Garang Malek, President and Chief Executive Officer of CapitalPay.

"GoPomelo's expertise and AI-driven approach provide the transparency, control, and reliability that our clients require to manage their businesses effectively — and position us well for continued growth worldwide."

This initiative is expected to enhance transaction visibility, improve settlement efficiency, accelerate financial inclusion, and support the continued expansion of the global digital payments ecosystem.
